

By collaborating at the beginning of the youth's eligibility for ILP services the SSCM and the ILS are better able to assist the youth with information specific to their individual needs. In addition, the SSCM, ILS and the youth can work together to develop the goals a youth wants to achieve and work to identify what services are available in the community when the transition out of foster care back home or into adulthood occurs. For many youth who enter foster care this collaborative relationship helps to set up a foundational support system of appropriate and supportive individuals for the youth that he or she can reach out to in times of distress. This framework of support also provides the youth with an example of how to communicate effectively to achieve a common goal and can lead to the development of other supportive and nurturing relationships within the youth's circle of family and friends who can continue to provide ongoing support through adulthood.

Interstate Compact for the Placement of Children (ICPC) Youth Eligibility

Youth under the age of 18 who currently are, or were formerly adjudicated as deprived or dependent by another state, who have either relocated or been placed in the state of Georgia through the Interstate Compact for the Placement of Children (ICPC) are the financial responsibility of the state from which they were adjudicated. The adjudicating state is responsible for funding independent living services, case planning, and any other financial assistance payments for the youth. Coordination of services for ICPC youth must be done through the state ICPC office.

Special Immigrant Juvenile Status (SIJS)

The Georgia Security and Immigration Compliance Act (GSICA) provides regulations concerning immigrants in Georgia who do not have a lawful US immigration status. It is unlawful for the Division of Family and Children Services to provide federal, state, or local benefits to undocumented immigrants and these regulations can directly affect youth that are discharged from foster care. In order to ensure that a youth exiting from foster care has availability to benefits as they transition into adulthood, any youth that enters foster care without lawful US immigration status should begin the application process for a lawful US immigration status, such as the Special Immigrant Juvenile Status (SIJS) immediately upon entering foster care. The SIJS application and approval process may take up to two years to finalize and SIJS must be attained prior to a youth's 18th birthday to be eligible for continuing benefits.

Youth Ages 18-21

Youth ages 18–21 that consent to continue to receive foster care assistance through age 21, in the Extended Youth Support Services (EYSS) program may remain eligible to receive ILP services. When a youth reaches the age of 18 he or she may elect to remain in a foster care setting without interruption, and continue to receive independent living services if eligibility criteria was previously met. Those youth between the ages of 18-21 who have elected to exit foster care may request to return and participate in the EYSS program within six months, if the youth meets the basic months of exit but prior to age 21. Any requests beyond the six month period for EYSS are subject to DFCS approval. Upon returning to the EYSS program eligibility criteria then they may receive ILP Services immediately. Youth between the ages of 18-21 who are not participating in the EYSS program may also be eligible for certain independent living program services, such as financial or educational supports.
