

Objectivity: An Introduction

Students demonstrate an ability to identify and compare different sources of information using the knowledge they have acquired by applying the principle of objectivity. The use of objectivity in the classroom requires students to read the primary information, understand it, compare the specific information with other information from other sources and give an opinion on the evidence that supports or refutes each source. Objectivity does not require students to follow an algorithm that leads to a specific answer or to be given a specific score. It is a process that involves identifying the sources of information, understanding the information, comparing it with other information, and giving an opinion on the information.
